

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Gérald Préher and Colette Colligan Foreword	13
---	----

PART I – SPECIAL SECTION BLUE SHORT STORIES

Guest Editors: Bénédicte Meillon and Frédérique Spill

Bénédicte Meillon and Frédérique Spill Introduction	17
Guillaume Tanguy “They took the boat farther out to sea”: Seamanship and Agency in “The Open Boat”	27
Inger-Anne Søvting The Sea Around Them : A Blue Reading of Ecological Coexistence in Stephen Crane’s “The Open Boat”	47
Françoise Palleau-Papin W. S. Merwin’s Fabled Waters	65
Monika Class “Every water has its own rules and offering”: An Amphibious Interpretation of Anne Carson’s Blue-Green Short Story “1 = 1”	83
Sylvia Mieszkowski Disavowal and “The Depth of a Metaphor”: Problematic Waters in Zadie Smith’s “The Lazy River”	103
Léna Kervran Sick Waters, Hybrid Bodies, Ghosts of Pollution: The Ecogothic Blue Short Story	125
Bénédicte Meillon Staying Afloat	145

PART II – GENERAL SECTION

Isabelle Boof-Vermesse and H�el�ene Cottet Four Readings of Nathaniel Hawthorne’s Tales	157
Matthew Redmond Nathaniel Hawthorne by Gaslight: The Illumination of Romance	161
Isabelle Boof-Vermesse The Ironic Oneiric in Nathaniel Hawthorne’s Tales	175
Bruno Monfort Between It-Narratives and Agalmata: Nathaniel Hawthorne’s Tales, (In)Animate Things and the Lifelikeness of Artefacts	193
Romain Wong Nathaniel Hawthorne’s “The Minister’s Black Veil”: Hooper’s Hieroglyphics	213
Jennifer Murray The Siamese Self in Barbara Gowdy’s “Sylvie”	231

PART III – BOOK REVIEWS

Christine Lorre J. R. (Tim) Struthers, Ailsa Cox, Corinne Bigot, and Catherine Sheldrick Ross, Reading Alice Munro’s Breakthrough Books: A Suite in Four Voices (Edinburgh: Edinburgh UP, 2024)	253
Anne-Sophie Letessier J. R. (Tim) Struthers, ed., Thank You for Visiting: Essays on Alice Munro’s Works III (Toronto: Guernica, 2025)	259
G�erald Pr�eher Paul Delaney, Anthologisation and Irish Short Fiction: Magnitudes of Telling (New York: Routledge, 2025)	265
Contributors’ Notes	271